Thanks Susy.

DO you know if the charge on that will be the .99 cents when we eventually get the bill?

I need to order the phone today. Our contract changes for the worse on the 31st. I can hold off on the billing until approximately January 15th. I will order it as new service so you won't be on the hook for full retail and then we will have to do some fancy dancing to move the number over.

Where do you want the new phone shipped to? I can send it to your home.

Okey dokey. We will need to wait until 2021 anyway to get this done. OEM is financially separating from Seattle Police on 12/31 so, I cant put in any purchase items until the new year.

It also means I will no longer be getting phone support from SPD and will have to go through Seattle IT anyway.

I'll ping you once I receive a new iphone.

At this point, all I can suggest is we get you a new phone. Because of month end and year end, and no on-site tech support, I am struggling. Smith is unavailable to assist further as he is super busy with year end tasks as well. I know this is not the route you wanted to take, but it's the only option I can offer at this point, unless you want to visit an Apple Genius store (appt. only) with the device and see if they can help. The closest Apple Genius stores are Southcenter and University Village.

No. I had one of the new FirstNet iphones for a couple of months (at least) when I was asked to update my pin number. Apparently I managed to 'fat finger' the wrong pin number TWICE and I wound up being locked out of my phone.

I still have the iphone 8 on my desk that's fully functional if someone can figure out how to wipe it or otherwise get around the lock out.

Good afternoon.

Circling back on my phone issue from October After a couple of months I am still on my iphone six. What is the best way to deal with this? Switch out my 8 for a different one or is there a way to do a full wipe on the phone and start over?

Ken,

Please contact Chris Steel at SPD. He has a "spare" phone that is NOT set up for device management. We will replace it with a phone EOC will need to order. Maybe you could swing by SPD on your way to your meeting? You should only have to swap the SIM card from your dead phone into the new phone. I suggest you set your unlock code to 206 + the first 3 digits of your home phone. I hope you guys can meet up. This is really hard to coordinate from Vashon!

Ken,

The problem we are running into is the OEM phones are not managed and support by SPD. I would assume when they were first setup, during that process you had to create an Apple ID and password for a work related account. When OEM was first issued the phone, was anyone on hand to help set them up or where you given instructions? If the phone was reset, you should be able to go through the prompts to set back up. Again, I think you will need the Apple ID and PW to complete the process.
